

Cleavage Makeup Tutorial

This tutorial will teach you how to create the appearance of cleavage in nine simple steps! We use simple contouring techniques to create a subtle yet realistic looking feminine chest.

Materials Needed:

- 1. Mehron Cream Foundation Stick (MEH400) relative to your skintone. (One dark and one light) In this tutorial for light to medium skin we used: Eurasia Ivory and Ebony
- 2. Janet's Own Lip-liner Brush (Found in Janet's Own Brush Kit SAR-12PC)

Step One

Start with one line using your light toned foundation up the centermost part of the chest. It is important not to go up too high. The best place to end your line is the center of your chest.

Step Two

Use that first line as a guide, and create an "Y" shape. This shapes the top and inner crease of the breast.

Step Three

Using your finger, you can blend the shape you created. It is important to blend gently, this creates a smooth finish while still keeping the shape you drew on.

Step Four

Taking your dark foundation, trace that outer part of the "Y" shape. This details the crease and gives the shape depth. It doesn't have to be perfect! You'll be blending it with your fingers anyways, so little details don't have much of an impact.

Step Five

Blend with a clean finger, going in a motion that smoothes the dark lines you created. Be sure not to go too far on the upper part of your breasts, because that can cause the cleavage to look less like a "Y" shape and more like a "m" shape.

Step Six

Take your dark foundation again, and line the innermost part of the cleavage. Remember, the lower the cleavage goes the darker it becomes.

Step Seven

Using the same techniques as Step Five, blend the dark lines you created with your finger. The darker you go, the more dramatic your cleavage will look. You can repeat these steps using the same techniques for deeper and more supple looking cleavage.

Step Eight

Using a clean finger, get a little bit of your light foundation. A little bit goes a long way!

Step Nine

This is the final step! Take your light foundation and blend on the front, top part of your breast. This will emphasize the fullness of the breast. A good tip: dark is slimming and light gives volume. This final touch highlights the top of the breast.

Voila! Your once flat chest now has the illusion of cleavage. Wearing tops such as V-necks and blouses really emphasize the chest. This makeup skill is a beautiful, and subtle technique that really emphasizes your womanly grace.
